Subject: Iran Internet Shutdown Putting Young Lives at Risk

Met groetjes,

My name is 5.1.2.e 5.1.2.e an Iranian living in the Netherlands. I am deeply alarmed by the nationwide internet shutdown in Iran, which is preventing citizens—especially young people—from accessing life-saving information, reporting abuses, or seeking help during ongoing protests.

Recent reports indicate that many young people have already lost their lives or been seriously injured during these events. The internet blackout not only silences their voices but also increases the danger to their lives by cutting off communication and emergency support.

While the situation is widely reported in international media, without formal political attention, these repressive measures will continue without accountability. I urge you to raise this urgent human rights issue in the Dutch Parliament and advocate for coordinated EU pressure on the Iranian government to immediately restore open and safe internet access.

Your action could help prevent further loss of life and ensure that the voices of Iranian youth are heard internationally.

Sincerely,

5.1.2.e 5.1.2.e
